10. Permanently dismiss the student from the university.

Article 11

In imposing penalties, their commensurability with seriousness of the violation shall be considered. Additionally, the precedents, circumstances, and factors related to the violation and the offender shall be considered. The Student Conduct and Disciplinary Committee shall be guided by the proposed penalties for violations listed in Appendix 1.

Article 12

Disciplinary penalties in Article 10 cannot be applied to violations occurring over two years ago unless an investigation was initiated.

Article 13

If a student is found cheating during an examination, disrupting the necessary calm and order of the examination hall or violating the University's examination regulations, it is the invigilator's responsibility to remove the student from the hall. The invigilator must then prepare a detailed report of the incident, following the procedures outlined in Article (5) of these bylaws. For monthly examinations and quizzes, this report should be submitted to the College Dean, who will oversee the subsequent procedures and take appropriate action upon receiving the incident report of the Add-Hock Disciplinary Committee formed by the College Dean for reviewing the case, conducting the necessary investigation, and providing recommendations. If further investigation is needed and the student contests the verdict, the College Dean will refer the case back to the Student Conduct and Disciplinary Committee for additional action.

Article 14

In case a student is caught cheating on reports, research, practical exercises, field training, assignments, or graduation projects, the course instructor is required to document the incident following the procedures outlined in Article (5) of the current bylaws. This report must then be submitted to the College Dean, who will manage the subsequent steps as per Article (5)

Article 15

A student who cheats or breaches the examination rules specified in Paragraph (3) of Article 9, even after the final course results have been finalized, will still be subject to disciplinary actions. In this situation, the department Chair will submit the case to the College Dean for further review.

Article 16

If a student who has been awarded a graduation certificate is found to have committed fraud or violated examination rules as outlined in Paragraph (3) of Article 9, the university is entitled to revoke the decision to issue the document or certificate. Additionally, the university may submit all related documents and investigations regarding the violation to the relevant state authorities.

Article 17

The Student Conduct and Disciplinary Committee must consider that imposing the penalties described in items (5 and 6) of Article 10 does not constitute grounds for canceling the student's enrollment. In addition, it may include in its decision that the period of the temporary dismissal penalty does not count toward the maximum academic period that can be granted to the student.

Article 18

In cases where violations are committed or participated in by someone outside the university, the Student Conduct and Disciplinary Committee may recommend notifying the appropriate authorities in the country and informing the violator's references.

Article 19

A student found guilty of the violation in Paragraph (11) of Article 9, shall be responsible for the cost of the damaged property, including repair or replacement expenses, and any related consequences. 2. The Committee shall consider the violations referred to it by the University's colleges and departments.
3. The Committee shall be entrusted with carrying out the necessary procedures assigned to it, such as investigations, examining and maintaining the necessary papers and documents, and following up with the implementation of disciplinary decisions.
4. The committee referenced in the preceding paragraph shall have the authority to investigate and adjudicate appropriate penalties for all violations referred to it by the designated competent authority. Furthermore, the committee may seek assistance from the Deanship of Student Affairs or any relevant unit to facilitate the investigative process whenever it deems such support necessary.

Article 21

If a member of the Student Conduct and Disciplinary Committee is involved in or has a controlling influence over the violation under review, that member must abstain from participating in the deliberation of the case. Moreover, any member may request to be excused from the consideration of a violation if they encounter a moral conflict that hinders their ability to engage in the process. In such instances, the competent authority reserves the right to appoint an appropriate alternative to the Student Conduct and Disciplinary Committee for the duration of the violation's review, if necessary.

Chapter 6: Procedures Applied by the Student Conduct and Disciplinary Committee

Article 22

The Chair of the Student Conduct and Disciplinary Committee shall call for a meeting when needed, considering the confidentiality of the meetings. A meeting is only valid with the presence of the two-thirds of the members, providing that the committee chair or vice chair is among them. The decisions are issued by a majority of votes, and in the event of a tie, the side in which the committee chair voted shall prevail.

Article 23

The Student Conduct and Disciplinary Committee shall address the violations within a period commensurate with the need for a fast decision-making as determined by the competent authority. The penalty shall be imposed after summoning the student for interrogation and hearing his or her statements about what was attributed to them, which must be documented in the investigation report, whether the student was investigated by the committee or by any unit at the university that was authorized to conduct the investigation. The student has the right to defend himself/herself and provide evidence that would negate the attributed violations, including the request to call for witnesses. His or her right to testify is forfeited if he or she is summoned by the university email or a message to his or her mobile phone registered in the university records, and does not attend on time, unless they present an excuse acceptable to the committee, and the case is considered in absentia. In all cases, the decision of the penalty must be communicated to the student.

Article 24

The Student Conduct and Disciplinary Committee has the authority to summon individuals whose testimonies are required including deans of colleges, department heads, faculty members, administrators, and others. The committee chair will issue the official summons. Testimonies will be taken in the presence of the committee members, and each witness's statements will be recorded in the investigation report, accompanied by their signature. Witnesses will be individually interviewed unless it is deemed necessary to question them together. The committee may accept written testimony from witnesses when appropriate. Additionally, the committee may seek assistance from the Deanship of Student Affairs or any relevant university unit to support its investigation and verification of the incident.

Article 25

The student found in violation will be notified in accordance with the provisions outlined in the bylaws, either through their university email or via a message to the mobile phone number registered in university records. It is the student's responsibility to ensure that their contact information in the university academic system is current and accurate.

Chapter 7: Powers of Imposing Disciplinary Penalties

Article 26

The authority of the competent parties to impose disciplinary penalties on violators shall be determined as follows:

1. A faculty member has the right to submit a detailed report of any violations that occur in their classroom to the College Dean within three days of the incident. The College Dean, upon conducting a necessary investigation, has the authority to impose the penalties outlined in paragraphs (1), (2), (5) and (6) of Article (10) of this bylaw on those found responsible for such violations within the college or its facilities.
2. The Student Conduct and Disciplinary Committee may impose any of the penalties stipulated in Article (10) hereof, and the Committee may alleviate the penalty if it deemed appropriate in the interest of student.
3. The Dean's and the Student Conduct and Disciplinary Committee decisions are final and binding; however, students have the right to appeal to the President Assistant for Academic Affairs within a period of 15 days from the date of issuance of such decision. President Assistant for Academic Affairs shall in turn forward the appeal to the Appellate Disciplinary Council at the earliest opportunity following its receipt.

Chapter 8: Periods of Complaints and Grievances against Disciplinary Decisions

Article 27

A student is required to submit a complaint concerning an incident within a period of fifteen days following its occurrence. Furthermore, a student may not file a complaint regarding the same incident more than once. Nevertheless, the student retains the right to appeal any disciplinary action imposed upon him or her. This appeal must be directed to the President Assistant for Academic Affairs within fifteen days of the decision rendered. The President Assistant is then tasked with forwarding the grievance to the appropriate authority at the earliest opportunity following its receipt.

If the disciplinary penalty decision is not appealed by the violator(s) within the stipulated period, the decision becomes final, and the Student Disciplinary Committee notifies its decision to the University President, Chairman of the Appellate Disciplinary Council, the Dean of Admission and Registration, the Director of the Security and Safety Department, or any party related to the decision. The violators are duly informed of the decision of the Student Disciplinary Committee.

Chapter 9: The Appellate Disciplinary Council

Article 28

The Appellate Disciplinary Council for students shall be formed by the University President for two academic years and it shall consist of:

- A. Assistant to President for Academic Affairs as Chairman;
- B. Two faculty member; and
- C. Head of the department to which the violator (i.e. the student) belongs.

Article 29

The Appellate Disciplinary Council shall consider the appeals filed by students. The Council shall exercise its powers by reviewing the minutes and decisions of the Student Conduct and Disciplinary Committee decisions of the College Dean. The Council shall be entitled to directly investigate with the student the violations attributed to him/her if the case so requires and it has the right to summon whomever is needed in order for their statements to be heard by the parties to the case, including faculty deans, department heads, faculty members, administrators, and others.

Article 30

The Appellate Disciplinary Council shall hold meetings whenever needed under call by its chairman. Such meeting shall not be deemed validly held except if attended by two-thirds of its members, and its decisions shall be issued by majority; however, when votes are equal the party with whom the chairman voted shall prevail.

Article 31

The Appellate Disciplinary Council shall inform the University President, Dean of Admission and Registration, Director of the Security and Safety Department, or any party related to the decision, including the Student Conduct and Disciplinary Committee of the appeal decision it has reached, without prejudice to the rule (that the appellant may not be harmed by their appeal).

Article 32

Decisions taken by the Appellate Disciplinary Council shall be conclusive, final and not appealable.

Chapter 10: General Provisions

Article 33

The Student Conduct and Disciplinary Committee will forward its recommendations to the President Assistant for Academic Affairs. Upon approval, these recommendations will be sent to the appropriate authorities for implementation, recorded in the student's file, and publicized through the university's media channels in a manner that protects the violator's identity.

Article 34

In the event of suspension, the student is prevented from benefiting from the student services and activities provided by the university during the penalty period.

Article 35

The student may petition the University Council to reconsider the disciplinary decision that resulted in their dismissal from the university, but only after a minimum of three years from the date the decision was made. Should the University Council choose to review the case, the student will be required to re-enroll as a new student.

Article 36

The Dean, chairpersons of departments, faculty members, department directors, and security personnel at the university are tasked with overseeing student behavior in alignment with the university's rules and regulations. When a violation takes place within the university premises, each of these individuals is responsible for addressing the issue according to their specific authority and the procedures outlined in the bylaws.

Article 37

The university's security personnel are responsible for maintaining safety and order on campus, and the notifications and reports they provide regarding students will be considered valid unless proven otherwise.

Article 38

The University Council reserves the authority to add, modify, or revoke the provisions within these bylaws, as well as to interpret them.

Article 39

These bylaws shall take effect upon their adoption by the University Council. Any preceding regulations, decisions, or directives that are in conflict with these bylaws shall be deemed null and void.
